THURSDAY JULY 17, 1873.

Delegate Appointed.

At a meeting of the Republican County Committee, of Monroe County, held at Stroudsburg, on Tuesday last, JOHN N. STOKES, Esq., was unanimously chosen delegate to represent Carbon and Monroe Counties in the Republican State Convention, to be held at Harrisburg, in August. The appointment is an excellent one and will doubtless meet the concurrence of the Republicans of Carbon.

The Wilkesbarre Daily has been received. It appears in the morning, but will soon be converted into an afternoon newspaper.

An adjourned court was held at the court house in this borough on Tuesday last, Judge Streeter, of the Bradford district presiding. We will give full proceedings in our next issue.

MR. WILLIAM ACKERMAN, is at present engaged in repairing his grist mill at the upper end of town, in consequence of which thrace has been dried up. The mill will again be in operation in a few days.

The bridge crossing the race near Kautz's wheelwright shop is in a splendid condition for breaking the limbs or instantly killing any animal crossing it. Unless it is attended to at once, we shall expect a first class item from that quarter.

A LARGE number of our young people enjoyed a sociable hop at Williams' hall one evening last week, the music for the occasion being furnished by a band of Italians. Everything passed off merrily as a marriage bell, and at a seasonable hour the party broke up, each one highly pleased with the festivities of the occasion.

A GRAND festival and picnic, under the auspices of Mincola Lodge No. 365 Knights of Pythias, will be held at Mincola Lake, near Brothheadsville on Thursday, July 31st. A grand time is anticipated. A cordial invitation to attend and participate is extended to all. Should the day prove stormy, the festival will take place on the next fair day.

FESTIVAL.—The members of the Phoenix fire company of this borough, desirous of furnishing the reception room of their engine house in a proper manner, have decided to hold a festival, the proceeds of which are to be devoted to that purpose. The boys should be encouraged in this enterprise, and we hope to see them liberally patronized upon the occasion of their festival. Due notice will be given of the time and place for holding the same.

CHURCH DEDICATION.—We are requested to announce that the Chestnut Hill New Church, situated near Gilbert's post office, this county, and which is rapidly approaching completion, will be dedicated to the service of Almighty God, on Saturday and Sunday, the 16th and 17th of August next. Ministers from abroad, and the public generally, are cordially invited to participate in the exercises.

CANCER REMOVED.—We were shown, on Monday last, by our townsman, Mr. D. H. Wyckoff, a large sized Epithelial Cancer, which had been successfully removed from his face, directly between the left eye and nose, without the use of the knife, by Dr. W. J. P. Kingsley, of Rome, N. Y. Mr. Wyckoff has been a sufferer for many years with this cancer, and has attempted to have it removed a great many times, but without avail. He finally went to Rome, N. Y., and placed himself under the care of Dr. Kingsley, a gentleman who makes a specialty in the treatment of cancers, and, after an absence of about two weeks, has returned home with the above very gratifying result. Mr. Wyckoff ranks, among our most energetic business men, and his many friends will congratulate him in his extreme good fortune in having the scourge so successfully removed.

ACCIDENTS.—On Saturday last, as Dr. J. D. Helfrich and wife, accompanied by Miss Nellie Ross, sojourning at the Stroudsburg House, were out enjoying a ride in the doctor's splendid turnout, and as they were descending the hill near Stormsville, the breaching strap broke, which so frightened the horse that he started off on a full run. The vehicle was upset, and the occupants spilled out. The doctor, who fell under the wagon, had the presence of mind to wind the lines around the carriage step, which soon brought the animal to a stand-still. We are pleased to state that aside from a few scratches and bruises no other injuries were sustained.

Mr. Hepburn Frankensfield was slightly injured one day last week, by being dragged from a load of hay. He was about driving into Wm. Wallace's barn with a load, which was too large for the door, and, his body coming in contact with the frame above, he was dragged off, though not seriously injured.

Milton W. Marsh, who was mowing hay for his father, received a severe cut in his right hand while engaged at whetting his scythe one day last week. The wound is not considered dangerous.

The public debt of the United States was reduced from $2,191,486,713 on the 1st of January last to $2,147,818,713, on the 1st of July last—a reduction of $43,668,000. Since the 1st of March 1868, the reduction is $377,644,545. The total amount of interest payable annually on this debt has been reduced from $103,221,893, at this time last year, to $97,602,969—a yearly saving of nearly six millions.

LEE & Co. get mad because we send them customers. Now we don't deny sending Lee & Co. customers. We have done it many a time, and shall continue to do so as long as we can make it pay. Neither do we deny its being a Branch concern, although we are a shamed of it—the way it is conducted. We regret, much, that we have no better salesman in it. It is well to have such Branches, where you can retail the small wares, and the sealawag stuff, that accumulates around a furniture store from year to year. We have made the furniture business in Stroudsburg just what it is to-day, and why not have Branches and retail establishments. It certainly pays better than to send the goods to an auction room and get a mere nothing for them.

We were glad to hear that our retail concern sold a set of chairs last week, away out at Chestnut Hill. That is business. David says we told them to go there to buy the goods. Now that shows our good feeling towards the Branch. We have done all we could to keep the thing with its head above the water, but we are a little afraid. But such is life. To those who read the master piece, produced by Lee & Co. in last week's paper, let us say, if you forget all the rest don't forget the closing lamentation:

"Truth crushed to earth," &c.
If we could have been near David when he penned those words and wiped his weeping eyes, we would have felt "muchly" better.
Adieu, McCARTY, the Furniture man.
Stroudsburg, July 17, 1873.

WHAT WE SAW THIS WEEK.—We saw the best looking girl in town post a letter on Sunday evening—a rural gentleman interviewing Hess & Co's tobacco sign, Captain Jack—the best looking man in town, but he don't keep a shoe store—the stack for Kistler's new tannery about completed—all our hotels crowded with visitors and smiling landlords—several ladies enjoying a horseback ride—The steamer out on Saturday doing good work—a large number of very young boys making nuisances of themselves on the streets every evening—two of the side railings missing from Pocono bridge; where so much "hanging over" is to be done, the structures must be built stronger—considerable "skylarking" every evening—a large number of very handsome vehicles on the streets—All the doctors in town very busy, and a stagnation in the undertaking business—the nobbiest street lamp in town in front of Wagner & Rhode's establishment—Judge DeYoung enjoying a comfortable smoke in the shade—Ned Pointsett concocting milk punches at the Stroudsburg House—L. W. Brodhead, of the Water Gap House, in town—our friend Archie collecting express bills—Dolly Varden on a swing at East Stroudsburg on Sunday last—a nuisance of a goat running at large upon the streets; come Tuttle, wake up—a very large feather attached to a bewitching little hat, adorning the head of a beautiful blonde—Pointsett sporting a very handsome diamond ring—Mr. Samuel Fenner, the purchaser of the Crystal Spring hotel property at East Stroudsburg—The guests at the Stroudsburg House enjoying a private hop—"Lew" Burson sweltering in the heat—a large double swing in the yard at the Stroudsburg House—Chief Burgess Stokes enjoying a ride behind his splendid team of bays—Fred. Born cracking cream nuts with his teeth—Hays, the hatter, doing an immense trade—Theo. J. Burnett and J. G. Keller, starting on a fishing excursion—two of our fashionable belles enjoying their cigarettes on Pocono bridge—the street lamps in a very dry condition—squire Wagner up to his ears in legal business—"Sticken" superintending the culinary department at the Washington hotel—and plenty more that will be chronicled in a future issue.

Boiler Explosion in Stroudsburg, Pa.

ONE PERSON NEARLY KILLED—SCENE OF DISASTERS SKETCHED BY OUR ARTIST—IN FRONT OF D. S. LEE & CO.'S LARGE FURNITURE EMPORIUM DOWN TOWN—A DAY LONG TO BE REMEMBERED.

As the glorious 4th of July was near at hand, and nearly every one was trying to drive dull care away, some four or five of our fun loving citizens had assembled in front of D. S. Lee's, especially to have some fun with David and accordingly they went for him, one at a time, so the fun would last longer. One of the best natured men we have in town, J. S. Williams, Esq., was near the scene and will vouch for the statement as correct. We don't pretend to say he participated in the fun however.

One of the party told David that McCarty was selling a great deal of furniture this year, and he wanted to know the cause of it. That he was always packing and shipping goods when they were passing his store. No. 2 says I have always understood that Lee & Co. were only agents for McCarty, that they were selling on commission. No. 3 says I have always thought it was a branch concern. No. 4 says I have heard that McCarty buys their goods and pays their bills in the city. No. 5 had a telegram of the proceedings and went directly to the scene and wished to buy some goods of him as McCarty had told him he could do so and have them less the commission. Our informant tells us this was too much for David and he left for a few minutes and all was quiet. Then, suddenly the sound of steam was heard escaping, as if danger was on the track, when to their utter astonishment our comes poor David puffing and blowing, frothing at the mouth and nose, because McCarty was selling too much furniture. By this time the party had all the fun they could stand for once without cracking their sides with laughter, and then came up to our store and told us what fun they had been having with Dave Lee. The poor brainless fool swallowed everything they told him. The party could not have had as much fun with Cary White, for Cary says that he is a fool, and knows it, and Dave Lee don't, that is all the difference. He has just found out that they were fooling him, and now he wants to trade himself off for a small dog—who has got one they want to exchange?

We have never stooped to notice any of his low slang in the past, but will hereafter go in strict accordance with the Scripture, and answer a fool according to his folly. We have many more things to write but they will be tedious to you. We therefore withhold them for the present. If ever occasion requires it we will talk business to you. As we have some of it now on our table, that we prefer not to meddle with at present. Now friend Lee, consult some eminent physician and find the locality of your brains, and if on examination it be found that they are too low down be still. We trust this will answer your master piece in the Jeffersonian and Democrat of last week. Except the poetry, we don't get any.
J. H. McCARTY.

The Troy Times says that on Friday afternoon last, as Mr. Alexander Cloakie was at work in a field with others, near that city, he was struck by lightning and instantly killed. The sun was shining bright at the time, and not a drop of rain fell where he was.

Nearly or quite twelve hundred thousand dollars worth of manufactured and marketable iron is said to be now held by the Alentown Rolling Mill Company at their various works.

It turns out at last that the Goodrich murder in Brooklyn, was committed by a woman named Kate Stoddard. She was found and arrested last week, and has since confessed the act. Kate was the mistress of Goodrich, and lived with him in his house. He grew tired of her and turned her adrift. She says that she loved him so much she could not bear this, and she therefore shot him with a pistol and placed the body where it was found. She had remained in Brooklyn, and was finally detected by a woman employed for this purpose.

The latest method of consuming coal dust has been proposed by a New Jersey projector. It is more particularly designed for locomotives, and consists in throwing the anthracite dust upon a fire started, and to the extent of one-half the fuel required, kept up with bituminous coal. The tender is to be made in two parts for the two kinds of fuel; the fire is to be made at first wholly with the bituminous, and so maintained until the steam gauge shows 100 pounds pressure in the boiler. The anthracite dust is then thrown into the furnace with a shovel in instalments alternate with the other.

It is urged, in defense of Thompson Buchanan's defaulting Secretary of the Interior, that the sum of $821,000 charged to him as a defalcation—was stolen by a clerk named Goddard Bailey. Perhaps so. But just now the Democrats are holding Gen. Howard responsible for the acts of his subordinates; and insist that he should be punished as a defaulter for the shortcomings of the clerks and officers employed under him. It is a poor rule that will not work both ways, and Jacob Thompson cannot be judged leniently by one rule, and Gen. Howard severely by another.

Came to Grief.

Jack Shipman, a notorious desperado of Eastern, came to grief on Thursday afternoon, while coming from Philadelphia on the North Penn. railroad. He was detected in an attempt to "go through" one of the passengers, and there was a movement made to arrest him. The second rail offered a desperate resistance, striking one of his captors with a billy, and finally made a dash for liberty out of one of the windows of the car. One of his arms was broken and he was badly cut and bruised. The wounded man was taken to Bethlehem where his injuries were properly attended to. It is to be hoped that his narrow escape from death will make Jack a wiser and better man.

A New Railroad to Belvidere.

The N. Y. Tribune in speaking of the Midland R. R. says:
A meeting of the Executive Committee of the New York Midland was held yesterday at the Company's offices to perfect arrangements to consummate the lease to it of the New Jersey Midland. Mr. Wortendyke, the President of the New Jersey Midland, says that extensive improvements are designed by that Company, independently of its connection with the New York and Oswego. Its managers expect to extend the road from Ogdensburg to Belvidere, Warren County, and to connect with the Belvidere and Delaware and New York Central, roads, and with a road now building by the Pennsylvania Central. It is also designed to build about two and one-half miles of track to the freight terminus of the road at Weehawken, and to finish the work in 1873.

Decision Believed.

Judge Dreher, who was chosen to arbitrate the questions at issue between the miners and operators of the Middle Coal Fields, has rendered a decision adverse to the workman. He says he has given careful consideration to the statement of facts and the arguments presented by the respective committees, and in his judgment, there should be no change in the Basis or rate of wages at the present time. The miners are very much dissatisfied, and it is by no means certain that they will abide by the decision of the umpire for any settled time. Elements calculated to disturb the existing order of things are at work throughout the coal regions, and it seems apparent to us that the relations between the operators and the miners are certain to be unsettled before long. The large companies have perfected their combination to reduce production with a view to making more money next winter, and it is but natural that the men should also be found moving to secure, if possible, some benefits from the prospective rise in the price of coal.

Internal Revenue Taxes.

It is possible that some of our citizens who are engaged in business as dealers in liquor or tobacco may unwittingly subject themselves to fines through ignorance of the provisions of the Internal Revenue laws. It has heretofore been the practice, when parties were about to commence business, for them to simply make application to the Assessor for special tax, and then open their doors for the transaction of business, and await the call of the Collector to make payment.—This practice is forbidden under penalties, and any person, firm or corporation, who shall engage or continue to carry on any of the occupations or business of a liquor or tobacco dealer after the 30th of April, 1873, without first filling an application upon blank form No. 11, for special tax, and making payment to the Collector of Internal Revenue, and procuring the special tax stamps authorizing them to exercise and carry on such business, will subject themselves to pay the fines and penalties prescribed by law for so doing. The special tax stamp must be kept posted up in a conspicuous place in every establishment.

Stages and Railways.

The first stage coach in America started from Boston from the site of No. 90 North street, in 1601. The first line of stage coaches between Boston and New York was established in 1732, a coach leaving each city once a month; fourteen days were required to complete the journey. In 1802 the mail stage started from Boston for New York on Monday morning at eight o'clock, and was due in New York at noon on Friday. On the seventh of April, 1834, the first train of railway passenger cars started from Boston for Needham, to which place the Worcester Railway was then opened; the Western Railway was opened to Albany December 31, 1841. Railways did not cross the Mississippi river until 1851; and on the 10th of May, 1860, they reached the Pacific. The number of miles of railway in the world is one hundred and forty thousand, of which one half are in the United States.

New Fifty-Cent Notes.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The plates for the new fifty-cent note have been prepared at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Treasury Department, and the work of printing the new note will be commenced next week, through it will probably be ten days before the note will be issued to the public. The new note will be about a quarter of an inch shorter than that now in circulation and a quarter of an inch wider, its dimensions being 3 1/4 inches long by 2 inches wide. On the face of the note, left hand side, is a vignette head of Samuel Dexter, who was Secretary of the Treasury in 1801 and a former Governor of the State of Massachusetts. On the right of the note is a section of geometrical, lathe work, with the words "fifty cents," in white letters, engraved across the face. The lettering on the note is the same as on the present issue, with the exception of the words, "receivable for all United States stamps," at the bottom of the old note, which are omitted on the new one.

The seal is printed in the centre of the face and is inclosed in cycloid work, a new feature upon fractional currency.—The back of the note, which will be printed in New York, will be in green. It is made up of geometrical lathe work and scrolls. On the right hand corner the word "cents" found on the old note is omitted, and the numeral "50" takes the place.
The date of the passage of the acts authorizing the issue is omitted from the face of the new notes and put upon the back thereof. On the left hand side of back there is an open space to show the fibre in the paper, and it will not be shown on the face as much as in the old note. The new note of course will take the place of the one now in circulation, as the present issue has been counterfeited, though not to any great extent. No other new fractional currency will be issued at present.

Political Speculations.

This is emphatically the "off year" in politics, and the business is duller than we have known it to be for a long time. The Republican party holds acknowledged supremacy in the nation at large and in most of the States, and therefore has no immediate occasion for active exertion. The Democratic party, admitted to be a minority in the country, is still benumbed by the effects of its adoption of Republican principles and candidates last year, in a hopeless struggle for success. Defeat has been doubly disastrous, because it was suffered in a cause in which the party had no sincere faith. Nothing has since been done that tends to place its affairs upon a better footing.
In preparing for the brief campaign of the present year neither party will be likely to take a fresh departure. The Republicans will prosecute their cause upon its merits and their own numerical power, and there is nothing new apparent that is likely to interfere with their harmony or general success. If bad nominations are made anywhere there are many individuals who will take the liberty of cutting their tickets for that reason, but there is no feeling of discontent that will operate against the general interests of the party. The vote cast this year will probably be light, but it will be solid. The old school of Democrats, under the lead of such men as Thurman, Buckalew and Bayard, seem to be going back to the old party landmarks, which they abandoned when they took up Greeley and Brown a year ago. The experiment of 1872 was not a fortunate one, and brought the party disgrace instead of glory—defeat instead of triumph. The organization is henceforth to be distinctly "Democratic," as it used to be, and its "Liberal" allies must either drill in the ranks or stay outside. It will be scarcely possible to fire the Democratic heart under such unpromising conditions.
Here in Pennsylvania it is generally admitted that the Republican nominees for the two State officers will go right through. The choice of the Republican Convention in August will be equivalent to an election, and hence we have an active preliminary canvass. For the distinction of a Democratic nomination there will not be much rivalry, and our own presiding Judge can probably attain that point without great exertion. We do not suppose that any canvass has yet been made by either of the State Committees, and it is not probable that either will consider the campaign worthy of much expenditure of effort or money. The Republican majority in the State this fall may be anywhere from 20,000 to 50,000.

In the different counties we shall witness the usual contests for Senators, Representatives and local officers. Over these on active fight is often made, and sometimes a heavy vote is polled.—The Republicans will probably make some gains in the Senate, and will undoubtedly carry the Assembly. Local officers will generally be chosen accord to the usual party divisions, though some close counties may reverse their recent record. The better and stronger nominations made by the Republicans, the greater will be their chances of local success.—Bucks County Intelligencer.

Janesville, Wis., was surprised on Thursday morning to see legions of frogs come out of the river and start off in a northeasterly direction. According to one observer there were 10,000 to the acre, and as they covered all the ground in the vicinity, the Gazette estimates the number at several millions.

A practical exemplification of "breaking up housekeeping" was given by an Altoona woman, whose husband has been on an extended drunk. She took an axe and smashed all the furniture, including the stove and utensils, killed all the chickens, and then took her two children and left the neighborhood.

The railroad earnings in June on seven-teen lines, including only Erie of the four great trunk lines, show $9,559,000, as against $6,633,000 in June, 1872, the average increase being over 20 per cent. The same lines since January 1 report $50,563,000, as against $46,340,000 last year.
